Heddle Construction Ltd recognises that care for the environment is a primary responsibility and is committed to achieve continuous improvement of our environmental performance. The environmental performance is managed through the company's management system.

We aim to:

- improve standards of environmental management at all projects in conjunction with those organisations that work with us;
- act as a good neighbour to the local community;
- take steps to minimise waste, prevent pollution, and pursue good practise in resource management;
- take steps to reduce energy consumption;
- set targets and use plans to monitor the achievement of defined environmental objectives;
- ensure that environmental considerations form part of each employee's responsibilities;
- comply with all Statutory and Client's requirements;
- develop procedures detailing environmental practices to take account of developing legislation, regulations, guidance on best practice and any other criteria we formally adopt;
- provide appropriate environmental communication, education & training.
